American Despatches.

COTTON CROP.
 London, Aug. 4.—The Times Washington dispatch says the Cotton Crop of America is in receipt of report from North Carolina, stating that the cotton crop in that State is a most flourishing one, and the yield will be the largest known in any year.

PACIFIC COLONIES.
 A London letter says, a meeting was lately held in London, consisting of all the most eminent representatives of the Pacific Colonies, and presided over by one of the most eminent of Colonial Governors. At this gathering deep and general classification was expressed, with the political and moral relations of these important and growing countries, with the parent State, and all the industrial Colonies, representing in fact all the important interests of these respective settlements, joined in the expression of a determination to require of Great Britain a new recognition of her Colonial Empire, which should afford these a guarantee that the interests of the various Colonies should receive due and prompt attention. In the result of this being found impracticable, and the sense of the meeting was decided that it would be so forth, it was decided by the present that they should ask all their influence with their respective Governments to secure the British allegiance and seek in some form the protection of the United States, or at all events to become in some manner as may be decided members of the system of the great Republic. The meeting was not public, but the results are likely to be made known at an early day.

BELLIGERENT RIGHTS.
 The Ohio says a rumor was in circulation yesterday in the Federal Building, Chambers street, that the United States Government would grant belligerent rights to the Cuban people in less than three days. The report is said to have come from Secretary Taft himself, in a telegram to Judge Pierpont. This sudden change in the attitude of the Secretary is attributed to the alleged refusal of the Government to favor the negotiations of Gen. Stetson, for the purchase of Cuba.

SEIZURE OF GUNBOATS.
 New York, Aug. 3.—Marshall Barlow, acting under the General Commission to preserve the neutrality of the United States, this morning caused the seizure of eight gunboats recently built by order of the Spanish Government, and lying at the iron works of Delmonico & Co., foot of 13th street, East River, on the ground that he believed they were intended to be used against Peru. The rest of the fifteen built here having been removed to Green Point, L. I., the gunboats were sent there to effect a seizure. The gunboats were dispatched officers to Mystic, Conn., to seize the fifteen additional gunboats constructed and being fitted out there for Spain. It appears representations were made to the Marshal that the vessels were intended to violate the neutrality laws, and that guns would be placed on board of each before leaving for their destination. Another report says the seizure was ordered by the Washington authorities.

Blessings in Disguise.

Monkeys were afflicted with the last night's storm, and my brown cat too heavily to weep, I spent with sorrow past and future tears. Too weary to wake—too sad to sleep.

With fates hand I drew away the blind, To look where by the morning dale and grey, I found no whither of the cold night wind, I saw no gleam to chase the gloom away.

Spread like a morning roll on every hill— Hung cheerless mist, through which the dark dove crept.

The raindrops on the trees lay cold and still Like heavy of one who in his sleep hath wept.

Sadly I turned and laid me down again, Till morning's leisure found my senses dull and dead.

And those who follow by my strength of pain, Forget their pain awhile, and cease to feel.

So passed the hours away, and I awoke; But with the light of the morning I saw, The damp mist rolled away, the morning broke.

And, pouring radiance forth, upon the sun The purple hills were tinged with living light.

The grass was waving in the morning breeze, Like sparkling green the rain-drops of the night In rainbow showers were glittering from the trees.

Then my heart melted too, and the deep gloom Passed like the dreamy morning mist away. I saw the sun show warm and bright in my eyes, And I rose up from my bed to greet the day.

O God, how merciful! 'Tis ever so, With sunshine man's face but the present pain, And the sleep in the wilderness of woe.

To stop the drawing of the last night's storm, To teach us, Lord, to bow beneath the rod, Even for the chastisement to love thee more.

To trust the mercy of the loving God, And in the way show His hand here.

So shall we walk through our life's chequered day, Safe from its noxious, but life-giving light, Till the last hour of glory shall pass away, And leave us to dwell in endless light!

Consumption of Species.

From the Providence Journal.

A single fact has at length been discovered, perhaps it would be safer to say conjectured, which would seem to support the Darwinian theory of progress by natural selection. It has been easy for theorists to imagine that any species of animals might take new organs to perform new functions; but they could not find facts to prove the theory. All the connecting links between different species seemed to be lost in the process of transmutation, and none of them could be found even among fossil animals. Mr. Darwin, thinking of the fact found one of the missing links, as a type of many kinds. He has discovered in the Island of Borneo a frog, fitted for flying like a flying squirrel. It is a tree frog, about four inches long with webbed, and forelegs lured by a membrane. The web of the hind feet when fully expanded cover a surface of four square inches each, and those of the fore feet four square inches. A Chinese workman told Mr. Wallace he saw this frog fly down in a slanting direction from a high tree and the webbed toes looked as if they might serve as a sort of wings. So Mr. Wallace inferred that here is one of the links of transition from batrachians to birds.

But Mr. R. A. Wallace, an ardent disciple of Mr. Darwin, thinking of the fact found one of the missing links, as a type of many kinds. He has discovered in the Island of Borneo a frog, fitted for flying like a flying squirrel. It is a tree frog, about four inches long with webbed, and forelegs lured by a membrane. A Beautiful Flower.

In a letter from Louisiana we read in front of this plantation, on the bayou are planted a plant called Spanish dagger, belonging to the cactus tribe, and green all the year round. I noticed its novel and green appearance when we first arrived in this country, and after a short stay, I noticed it with curious eyes, but was not in the least prepared for its marvellous development since. It grows to the height of eight to ten feet, but very irregularly, and consists of branches of various shapes, thorny leaves, so tough and sharp as to enter the skin of horses and cows, and if a child should be thrown against them, it would be transfixed and killed, the same as if they were real daggers. The plant was originally brought here from Mexico for hedges, but it proved too troublesome and dangerous for the purpose, and was mostly destroyed, and these are stray seeds or shoots that could not be eradicated, and now they have firm position in the soil in spots, on the bayou, and always attract the passing traveler's notice. Well, about a month ago, a tall stem shot up from the top of each of these clusters of thorns, as large as a lemon handle, and varying in length, and on the top of this stem was bud-like and blossomed an immense white flower, of such huge dimensions, and such surpassing loveliness, that really, when I first looked at it, I looked so divinely pure and lovely—I almost felt that a halo of heavenly glory surrounded it, and when one was cut down and brought in the house for me, I sat, spell-bound, upon its marvellous and fabulous loveliness. It consists of a collection of pure white tulip-shaped flowers pendant from this stem, and I counted 300 on this one stem, like white stars, pure as the angel's foot, or the world's most perfect blossom. It is the size of a water-pail at the bottom, and grows in a conical form. Though such a hedge in blossom—wouldn't it be like the fairy gardens of Elysium? I would have given the little one to the child, but I thought I would have the one that I had in its freshness and primitive beauty; but, alas, it was frail and fragile, and lasted only one short week.

THE weather at this writing is magnificent, clear, and temperate, and the sun is shining in every direction, and the hill-side with busy birds. The weather is not too hot, and yet it is dry. It was feared that the torments of rain which drenched the ground in the early part of the week would work incalculable damage to the crops, much of which was cut but abounded. Had the rain been succeeded by hot, sultry weather, half the yield might have been destroyed by rust. But fortunately the air remained cool, with a moderate wind, and drying wind. So the danger for the present is over. We now need nothing but a few fine days. How dependent is the human mind upon the elements!

FIRE IN A CATHEDRAL, LOSS OF LIFE.
 PHOENIX, Aug. 5.—During the celebration of a great festival in the Cathedral of St. Francis, the clergy were celebrating the Mass. The church was crowded at the time, and the congregation was seated with a panic, and a rush was made to the door. In the confusion, 16 persons were trampled to death, and a large number badly injured. The fire was easily extinguished before any considerable damage had been done to the Cathedral.

THE CASE OF PRINCE KARAGIOEVOV.
 WICH.
 PRINCE, Aug. 5.—The Emperor has declined to grant the petition of the wife of Prince Karagioev for the pardon of her husband, as accused of assassinating the late Prince of Serbia, and has ordered that he shall be dealt with by the ordinary tribunals.

SPEECH OF BARON BRETHERTON.
 VIENNA, Aug. 5.—During the discussion of the war estimate in the Reichsrath, Baron Bretterton said it was his duty to maintain peace for a considerable length of time; but he expressed the opinion that it was not to be expected during the next four years, the preservation of the peace of Europe for a long period beyond was certain.

THE LATEST.

A COUNSELLOR.

LONDON, Midland, Aug. 5.—In the House of Commons to-night, Oliver in reply to a question from Bowring, said in consequence of the recommendation of the official committee, the Government had declined to fill the vacancy in the British Consulate at Chicago.

CANADIAN LOAN BILL.

Grandfather moved the second reading of the Canadian Loan Bill, which provides for the raising of a loan of $200,000 for the purchase of the Territory and rights of the Hudson Bay Company. Grandfather stated that the Government was taking the adjustment of the question which was of considerable importance in respect to the relations of England with America to prompt settlement of the Territory. Her Majesty's Government undertook in accordance with pledges it had given to propose a guarantee to the Hudson Bay Company, and the second reading was postponed three months. Grandfather declared the amendment to be a good one, and after some further discussion, the amendment to postpone the second reading was rejected by 65 to 10, and the Bill was then read a second time.

HARVARD CREW.

In their practice today, the Harvard crew made better time and showed better power than before. They made 34 strokes per minute in the start, and gradually increased the number.

YACHT RACE.

COWES, Aug. 5.—To day the Royal Yacht Squadron regatta for the Town Cup, of plate valued at £200, took place. It was sailed over the Queen's course 5 miles, and was a time race on the Royal Yacht Squadron's course. The weather was fine, the race was won by Mr. J. Chamberlain's cutter Arrow, 102 tons; Mr. Sutton's schooner Arrow, 91 tons; second, Mr. J. J. Tassart's cutter Arrow, 102 tons; third, Mr. J. J. Tassart's cutter Arrow, 102 tons.

STILL LATER.

ATTEMPT TO BLOW UP THE HOUSE OF PARLIAMENT.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—At an early hour this morning, during the session of Parliament, great excitement was occasioned by a loud explosion in the building. A search was instituted, and a case, which had contained powder was picked up on the terrace. No more damage was done. No arrests were made. The affair is locked in mystery.

Death.

Out of the shadows of sadness,
Into the sunshine of gladness,
Into the land of the Blest
Out of the land of the dreary,
Out of the world of the weary,
Into the realm of rest.

Out of to-day's life and sorrow
Into a blissful to-morrow,
Into a day without gloom,
Out of a life filled with sighing—
Into the land of the dying—
Into a land without pain.

Out of a life of commotion,
Temporizing on the ocean,
Dark with the wrecks drifting o'er,
Into a land calm and quiet,
Never a storm to vex the sight—
Never a wreck on the shore.

Out of a land in whose bowers
Pain and sorrow and grief
Out of the land of decay,
Into the Eden where there's
Of flowers, and sweetest rest,
Never shall wither away.

Out of the world of the waiting,
Thronged with the anguished and ailing,
Out of the world of the dead;
Into a world that rejoices
Of world bright visions and voices—
Into the world of the glad.

Out of a land ever fearful,
Out of a land ever mortal,
Where in black coils we roam,
Into a joyous land where Where there's a future to love us—
Into "Our Home, Sweet Home."

Life Thoughts.

If you cannot do as well as you wish, do as well as you can.

Providence made in the time of affliction requires a better memory than people commonly possess.

When you hear a man say, "Life is but a dream," tread on his corns and wake him up. Life is real.

Be deaf to the quarrelsome, blind to the sorrow, and dumb to those who are maliciously inquisitive.

To mingle the useful with the beautiful, is the highest style of art. The one adds grace, the other value.

Wear your learning like a watch, in a private, and not endeavor to show it unless you are asked what o'clock it is.

Be always sure of doing good. This will make your life comfortable, your death happy, and your heaven glorious.

If you cannot abide the storm without flinching, climb the wayside to be overlooked or forgotten.

Homer Gregory says that the darkest day in any man's career is that wherein he finds there is some easier way of getting a dollar than by squarely earning it.

When friendship is to be valued—Value the friendship of him who stands by you in the storm, whereas of friends will surround you in the sunshine.

Success in life is very apt to make you forget the time when you weren't much. It is just so with a frog on a lily pad—he can't remember when he was tadpole—but other folks can.

The following sentiment is attributed to Napoleon Bonaparte: "A handsome man pleases the eye, but the other has no effect on the heart. The one is a jewel—the other a treasure."

Memory precedes the past; faith over the present. The first lives in a rich temple hung with glorious trophies, and filled with tombs; the other has no altar but duty, and it walks the earth like a spirit.

If you are a wise man you will treat the world as the moon treats it. Show it only one side of yourself; freedom show yourself too much at a time, and we will show you calm, cool and polished. But look at every side of the world.

"When a stranger treats me with want of proper respect," said a philosophic poor man, "I comfort myself with the reflection that it is not myself he respects, but my true, but no particular claim to advance him. So I try to eat and choose to treat about it, let them; it is nothing to me."

Never intentionally wound the feelings of anybody. The good opinion of the world is the very best kind you can have; and the more the better. The man or woman who says he or she doesn't care a pin what the world thinks or says, gives utterance to what they know is absolutely false. We do care, and it is well we do; and those who are gravely mistaken who say they do not.

Hearts are not trumps in a great game of life. As a sentimentalist, I am greatly regarded as prissy, but as a fact of life, I am not. It is quite the thing to struggle about the little better, but the world really holds it in more estimation than we do. Money is the trump card, and to which all others in the pack pay homage. If any dispute this, let him open his eyes and look about him.

Education does not commence with the alphabet. It begins with a mother's love, a father's word of approbation, or a sign of respect; with a sister's gentle pressure of the hand, or a brother's noble act of forbearance; with a handful of flowers in green and daisy meadows; with a bird's nest adorned with moss, and with thoughts directed, in sweet and kindly tones and words, to justice, to beauty, and the love of the good, and to the sense of being good—to dead friends—and to the source of all good—to dead himself!

In the Solar System in Danger.

The London Spectator has a curious speculation upon "The Solar Stability" the scientific basis of which is in the following facts:

The sun has been shown to be subject to variations in brightness, and that which entities it to be called a variable star. These changes are periodical, and are pretty certainly connected with "magnetic storms" on earth, which take place when the spots on the surface of the sun are agitated. On September 1, 1899, the most remarkable of these storms that has been observed took place, and all the telegraphic wires of both hemispheres were disturbed. In some places severe shocks were felt by operators, and even flames appeared in the instruments at night magnificent auroras were seen. Another similar storm expected in 1899, astronomers believing that it will recur every eleven years.

The Spectator believes that man's moods are greatly influenced by the agitations going on in the sun. It says:

"And we now know that these appearances are not merely matters for the curiosity, with which they are often met at a distance, above ninety millions of miles, practical men need not concern themselves. In point of fact, it is by no means impossible that the causes of present war, of a financial crisis or a religious agitation, may be closely bound up with these phenomena; if not, indeed, which is also quite possible—the sudden disappearance of our whole system, after the fashion of other systems which have thus disappeared. This much at least is certain, i.e., the vast changes now going on in the physical constitution of the sun are changes which do most powerfully affect the electric condition of our earth, which have in fact, year after year, caused the most violent disturbances in the various artificial as well as natural electric apparatus of the world, which, to speak of the least of all possible effects, might just as well as happen some day, throw the electric condition of every telegraphic cable on our planet, under the sea or above it, into the most dire confusion, and send down telegraph companies' shares to a lump, even if they did not contribute to telegraph to us, to some strange inarticulate fashion, that shares in all public companies, even in that very limited public company, the human race are in a physical point of view, of very doubtful value indeed."

Some of the British writers try to make a first class "sensation" of the matter. A few years ago, a small star suddenly blazed into great brightness and burned out, and the spectroscopist showed that it was burning hydrogen. Now it is certain that the sun contains an immense amount of hydrogen, and at times sends up flames of it many thousands of miles. What would be the result if the sun should suddenly develop a black like that of the star so recently lost? "The earth would be turned into vapor," says a leading man of science, "as quickly as a drop of water thrown into a furnace."

ORANGE AND GREEN AT LIVERPOOL.—On Saturday a woman (a) named and respectable man (b) named Elizabeth Lynch was charged before the Mayor, Magistrate, with throwing boiling water upon the infant child of a man named Thomas. On Friday, several children decorated themselves with orange lilies and ribbons, and were playing near the prisoner's house in Queen Anne Street. Mrs. Lynch, who is a Roman Catholic, seems to have been annoyed at this display of orange and green, for she deliberately threw a quantity of boiling water upon the children, amongst whom was a daughter of Thomas's, who was nursing the infant. The lady was very severely scalded and also one of the other children. The case was remanded.

A WARNING TO JOKE.—An extraordinary affair has just overtaken a young man William Howell, of Bell's Depot, Tenn. It seems that out of mere sport, while on the cars on the road to Memphis, when the news-boy came around and offered him a paper, he refused to be both that clown, and in this way annoyed the reader of the latest Memphis paper so little. The news-boy passed on, but the unfortunate fellow never spoke again. When he began to realize the extent of his misfortune, he got off the train bound for Memphis, at Mason's Depot, and took the first train that came along for Bell's Depot. On the train he indulged in loud lamentations and cries, as if he were distressed. The after-expected intense interest among his fellow passengers and on his speedy arrival home, as he was stepped out on the platform, he showed a pained and a paper from a citizen in the crowd, and went straight to the account of my folly, and continued weeping in great piteous tones. The whole community was stirred to indignation by this display of unmanly conduct, and the worth of God. There seemed to be no doubt about the matter. When young Howell left that morning for Memphis he could hear and speak without difficulty, and the loss of his voice was due to the circumstances, he is a most astounding incident.

A Death Kiss.

From the Nashville (Tenn.) Press, July 25.
A young gentleman named Joe White, a very respectable, industrious, quiet, good looking fellow, of about eighteen years of age, and a resident of Nashville, went to South Nashville Saturday night to visit his lady love, Miss Barry. He had been frequently to visit her at various times. They were engaged to be married. They met in the parlor, sitting, as a proper young girl should be. She was anxious to finish the article, and therefore concluded not to throw it aside when he entered, particularly as he complimented her on her pretty appearance, with her beautiful lace banding over her slender figure as she placed the stitches with as much grace and rapidly as other girls display in skinning over the keys of a noisy piano.

He took his seat beside her. They chatted and gossiped. After waiting for a few minutes, which to his excited blood, he became impatient, and longed to impart a chaste kiss upon her lips and pointing lips. With the view of carrying out his design, he let his arm encircle her waist, and as he was drawing her close to him, she, who had been sitting so demurely, she objected to being disturbed until her little work was done; but he insisted. She made a motion to shove him off, as girls are said to do generally. This motion proved fatal to her happiness and to his life. He became impatient, and drawing her to him with much violence, the needle which was caught in her thumb got between them, the point went to her heart.

It entered, and as he was about to imprint a kiss of love upon her lips, his own became very pale, his vigorous grasp relaxed, and then his hand fell from her as if by a celestial puff, at the moment of contact. He sickened, fell back upon the sofa, quite helpless. The young lady was much alarmed, and ran for assistance. The family all ran into the room, and tried to open his shirt collar, thinking he was in a fainting fit, and that the most restorative would suffice. In endeavoring to do this, he was found that the needle had penetrated his side very deeply, a circumstance which the young lady never could bring herself to think of. The doctor was sent for. He administered what would be called a partial resuscitation, and the young fellow seemed to be better. The scene between him and his first love, was extremely affecting.

She wept like one who feels that all happiness on earth is lost, and he seemed to regret her loss and not his own condition. He consoled her by saying that she would soon get another lover, a better one, who would be more worthy of her than he could hope to be, and who would make her happy. This but increased her heavy tears, and she sank down upon the sofa beside him, and cried aloud. When he was becoming worse, and the doctor gave up, she called to him that he could not live, she started suddenly on her feet, and running into another room, returned with a heavy box of landrum, which was kept there for the use of a young member of the family that was sick. It was a box of landrum, and she discovered, and it was with the utmost difficulty she was brought back to him. "O, where is he? let me go to him; I will be with him." At the same time the young gentleman was raising his spirit into the hands of his Maker in the adjoining room. He died about 10 1/2 hours after the commencement of his illness.

Too Late.
A new Brunswick farm
At Bathurst, the Hon. John Ferguson has a farm of 950 acres, in a high state of cultivation, which would not fail to stand a comparison with some of the best farms in Ontario. It is thoroughly well cleared, has about fifty miles of fence upon it, and shows as fine a crop of oats, barley, corn, grass, potatoes, and about 70 acres of spring wheat, as fine as any one would wish to see. He raises about 200 tons of hay, has 30 acres of potatoes, about 60 acres of oats, and a large number of acres with a fine show of turnips. This shows what the land is capable of by proper cultivation, and there can be no doubt that proper energy and skill will, in a few years, make a splendid farming country, extending over a large area.

When we wait, we have three pains
The promise that if we wait
Till the wheat has turned out of grain,
Every man shall be present to state,
While we wait for the capital the soup
Will be sold,
While the nation is trimming the fence grows
old,
When we're matched our buttons the potter is sold,
And everything comes too late—too late!

When strawberries seemed like red leaves—
Terrapin was a wild dream
When my brain was at times and areas
If my mother had had ice-cream
Then I need with a tickler bugger
But oh! how I missed it was younger
When the goodies all came in a stream
In a stream!

I've a splendid blood here and a liver
That I like to let to the river
My row boat's the gem of the river—
Gout makes every knuckle a stone
I can buy boundless credit on Paris and Rome,
But no pal for money—no eyes for a dime—
Those belonged to the youth who married at home
When no loose but as little he'd got-ta' wait.

How I longed in the lanes of garrets,
Where the birds bled my brain all day,
For ground to grow two pecks of carrots,
Two bags of any one but a rat,
A row-bath—a little tumbled cottage—
Two spoons—lots—a basin of potatoes,
Now in inflation 7 shillings and sixpence—
With a woman's chair empty close by—Close by!

At night, though I sit on a rock,
I have shared one seat with the Great,
I have sat, knowing naught of the deed,
On O'Leary's high throne of state,
But his lips that kissed and the arms that caressed
To a month grown stars with delay
were pressed,
And dried a breast that their clasp had displeased
Had they only not come too late!
too late!

—Fit Hugh Ludlow, in Harper's Magazine.

The Line of the Intercolonial.
A correspondent of the Toronto Telegram has discovered that there is really a very fine country along the line of the Intercolonial Railway. The Montreal Gazette says:—We knew this before, but so many in the West through ignorance, and in the East through interested motives, have asserted the contrary that we agreed to have this fresh testimony to the fact. The correspondent says of the AGRICULTURAL CAPABILITIES OF THE COUNTRY:—I am satisfied that the agricultural capacity of this part of the country has never been properly understood. The tanning waters of the Chateaux and the vast forests combined with the absence of the necessary facilities for getting agricultural produce to market, have tended to make the population mainly fishermen and lumbermen, and looking upon the land as only necessary to be worked to an extent sufficient to supply them with potatoes, a little corn and such like. Farming has consequently been neglected, but there is no part of the Dominion where potatoes, barley, oats, corn, grain of all kinds, root crops, and grain in certain localities, can be grown better or cheaper than in the valley of the Rideau, the north shore of the Bay of Quinte, and the country between Bathurst and the Ottawa River. The Miami district. We saw many farms where the crops were most excellent, the cultivation exceedingly good, and the soil naturally productive. There is a large area of country of which this description is perfectly correct, and there can be no doubt that after the Intercolonial Railway has been opened a few years, and it has brought the country into notice, and provided a market for its surplus productions, that a great change will be seen, and that the local traffic upon the railway will be very much greater than any one hitherto has ventured to suppose.

PROBABLE TRAFFIC FOR THE LINE.
The traffic in fish, upon which I shall have something to say in my next letter, will also be very large. Although, of course, its weight cannot be great. The lumber business on many parts of the line will also be very considerable, and it is my description to add, having formed a poor opinion of the prospects of the business upon the Intercolonial line, before I had seen the country in summer, I shall return with the conclusion formed upon it by my eyes, and I feel that the country has been underrated, and that it has a much larger capacity for the support of a large and thriving population than I had ever supposed possible.

PROBABLE TRAFFIC FOR THE LINE.
The traffic in fish, upon which I shall have something to say in my next letter, will also be very large. Although, of course, its weight cannot be great. The lumber business on many parts of the line will also be very considerable, and it is my description to add, having formed a poor opinion of the prospects of the business upon the Intercolonial line, before I had seen the country in summer, I shall return with the conclusion formed upon it by my eyes, and I feel that the country has been underrated, and that it has a much larger capacity for the support of a large and thriving population than I had ever supposed possible.

The Old Story.

"The tale is not old and the bread is dry,
And the brew is turned for us southern men
Kiss my cheek and your own
And you will find me true to you"
"A kiss your cheek, and kiss your lips;
I never a change this heart has known
Waterfall—come here, come here
Harling, darling, I love you"
Oh, but the southern night is here!
The sailor calls to the dreamer's side
A kiss burns hot through his dream of love
And his heart goes south with the flying clouds
The maiden laughs by the garden gate—
Dreams of love are about her
Kisses fall on her lips and hair,
And the world goes on as it went before.

Hag Fair in London.

Many of our readers have heard of "Hag-fair," in London, that well-known mart for every description of second-hand clothing. The principal feature of this busy scene appears to be the low price of all articles sold here, illustrating, as it does, the poverty of those who buy. Persons of the upper classes, who are accustomed to buy clothes at the shops of fashionable tradesmen, can form no idea of the prices paid for articles of dress at "Hag-fair." One of the London City missionaries reports as follows:—

There is as great a variety of articles in pattern, and shape, and size, as I think could be found in any draper's shop in London. The mother may buy a "Hag-fair" with the whole of her family, both boys and girls—yes, and her husband, too, and for a very few shillings get them out from top to toe. I do not doubt that for a man and his wife, and five or six children, if, at their disposal, judiciously laid out, would purchase them all an entire change. This may appear to some an exaggeration; but I actually overheard a conversation in which two women were trying to bargain for a child's frock; the man asked for it was 1s., and the sum offered for it was 1s., and the sum offered for it was 1s., and they parted on the difference.

The following is the copy of the bill delivered by the dealer in one of the missions, which was requested to supply a set of clothes for a man and woman who had been persuaded to get married several years after the right time:—

1 pair of new-frosted shirts, very elegant, 0 1
1 pair of new frosted shirts, very elegant, 0 1

1 pair of new frosted shirts, very elegant, 0 1
1 pair of new frosted shirts, very elegant, 0 1
1 pair of new frosted shirts, very elegant, 0 1

The man has been educated, and could speak no fewer than five languages; by profession he was then, however, nothing less than a coal-burner.

The bill delivered for the bride's costume was as follows:—

1 pair of new frosted shirts, very elegant, 0 1
1 pair of new frosted shirts, very elegant, 0 1
1 pair of new frosted shirts, very elegant, 0 1

The goods were selected by the missionary, and at the bottom of the bill the merchant remarked:

Pa.—Will be very happy to supply as many as you can find at the same prices.

FIOUT BETWEEN A SHIP'S CREW AND A BABOON.—An English steamer, which arrived at Liverpool from Africa a few days ago, had on board three giant chimps or baboons, two crocodiles, several monkeys, and other specimens of the natural history of the country. The baboons were very vicious and possessed of great strength. For their sake a strong den was provided with iron bars and placed near the fore-cabin, so that they could be constantly under the eye of the crew. All went well until the morning of the second day out, when a crash was heard, and in an instant the large chimps had wrenched several bars off, and in the next instant was on the fore-cabin, armed with the bars with which he had been confined. Here his majesty poured for a moment, and in a dignified manner surveyed his captors. A troop having been sent, a noise was formed and cast over his head, and he struggled hard to extricate himself, but in vain. He was then attacked one of the seamen, whom he seized by the arm, and notwithstanding that several of the men belabored him with weapons, the brute would not relinquish his hold until he had torn the cloth from above the elbow to near the wrist, and had been rendered insensible, when he was carried to his den.

The Ripening Corn.

It is a joy to walk through the wheatlands

When the ripening of wheat drops down

The waving corn with its burning ears

A sea of gold on the earth is seen

No longer robed in a dress of green

With tawny faces the fields are seen

A bright moon and the stars are seen

Then a beautiful blood-red sunset seen

Beautiful custom was that of old

When the farmers brought, with a joyous shout

The earliest ears of the ripening corn

And laid them down by the altar of home

When the priesthood waved them before the Lord

White the driver's harvest all hearts adore

Wheat gifts more suited could man impart

To express the love of his grateful heart

A crowd awaits 'neath the cottage eaves

To eat the corn and bind the sheaves

At length, to hand the expected wheat

Full in the night, the sun is bright

And the reapers go forth with as little a soul

As those who joined for the Olympic goal

And gladiators hearts and voices shout

To swell the shouts of the harvest host

And there is a reaper on earth well known

Whose deeds are traced on the harvest scene

He carries a scythe more deadly and keen

Than any in the harvest field of men

He is down the earliest ears in spring

As well as the ripest that time can bring

The same he gathers when the harvest is done

The sheaf is laid in the garner of Heaven

A Hopeless Case.

The other evening two Irishmen, new to the country, and belonging to the better

class of emigrants, arrived at Toledo late in the evening, and stopped at the Island

House. They were shown to a room far

up in the building, the gas lighted, and they were left alone. The weather was not, the windows open, and the two gentlemen sat down to enjoy a chat. Soon,

attracted by the light and the prospect of a square meal, a troop of the hungriest of

the hungry mosquitoes bore down on the ill-fated Irishmen. They fought and fled, but the insects constantly received

reinforcements, and the travelers were in despair. The clerk was summoned, and asked agonizingly: "Is there no defense

against these blood-thirsty creatures?"

He told the travelers that if they would put their gas and close their windows they would experience relief. They acted on this suggestion, and placed themselves between the sheets. Just as they began to doze, lightning bolts of light strayed into the room, caught the eye of one of the travelers. He aroused his companion with a punch. "Jamie, Jamie, it is no use, here's

one of the creatures searching for a new lair."

A Little Too Sharp.

An enterprising business man of Hartford, Conn., runs two branches of trade, to wit: a grocery and a fish market—the

grocery himself, that makes the delivery,

and every night the latter makes return of the proceeds of the day's business to the proprietor. A few days since, the grocer

found in his fish market returns a counterfeit five dollar bill. He is a little sharp-

sighted, and didn't quite want to take the chance of trying to pass it. So he called to an old clerk who was hanging about the premises, and said to him, "Sam, here's a five dollar bill that is a little doubtful—

If you'll take it and which I'll give you a dollar of the change." "Very well," said

Sam, and he took the bill and went off.

Later in the day he returned, having accomplished the job, and handed over four dollars in good money to the grocer. That night the grocer, in counting the cash returns from his fish market, was more surprised than delighted to find the identical

five in the pile. "Look here," said he sharply to his fish market clerk, "here's a

counterfeit bill; who did you take it off;

didn't you know it was bad?" The clerk

looked at it and looked at his master. "Oh

yes," said he, "I remember now; I took it off Sam, the clerk. I thought it was a little doubtful, and wasn't going to take it,

but he said he got it of you. Further, so

I thought it was all right. Your explanation

was unnecessary."

Occult to Hate Known Him

An individual possessing unmistakable evidence of African extraction was straggling

for factory. The judge, as of right, was thundered, but, with severe presence,

"Are you guilty or not?"

"Sir"

"Did you steal these clothes?" he inquired.

"Golly, boss, where never steal."

"This man say?"

"He ain't nothing but white trash."

"And what are you?" continued the judge.

"Me and the darkey? Ah, you know me."

"I know you. I did and you in the prison."

"I helped to lead you home when you and I told you that you weren't no

me!"

"There was the substitution of a

that darkey's case that judicial assen-

Showmen Elegance.

The following is the latest piece of showman elegance.—Gentlemen,—This is the celebrated box constructor, the finest,

largest, longest, strongest, and prettiest

animal of its species on exhibition in this country. He was caught in South Africa

(as he lay) by a fellow of the name of

and a drove of sheep) in a wire net, but capture affording a beautiful illustration

of successful wire pulling. It was supposed that the animal where he was found was not enough to hold him, and that his skin

was at least well done, is there proved by its highly finished appearance. His colour

is supposed to combine all the hues of all

skins that ever lived, but from the "old

serpent" to a copper one. His size is variable, as, like most other objects in nature, he expands with heat and contracts

with cold. For every rise of five degrees

in the thermometer, he gets a foot of longitude. In his native land he is a hundred feet long. Last January, when the thermometer told us to expect a cold, he took to his

trading, and was to be seen in his native

NUMERICAL SALE OF CUBA.
London, Aug. 14.—The fact has been editorially stated on the subject of the sale of Cuba to the United States, wherein the writer says: "We certainly should welcome the best thing Spain can do to close with America's interest in Cuba. She gives nothing by Cuba in her present state but lower prices for sugar and molasses. It is not strong enough to stamp out insurrection, but it is obliged by a false sentiment of honor to continue the struggle and to maintain the status quo."

Household Recipes.

QUINCE PRESERVE.—The orange quince is the best to preserve. Peel and core the quinces; put the peel and core in a kettle with just water enough to cover them; let them simmer about two hours; then strain the liquor and put it back into the kettle and put in as many quinces as the liquor will cover; boil them until they are tender, take them out and put them on a flat dish to cool; put in more until they are all boiled, then put the sugar in and let it boil until it becomes a syrup; then put in as many quinces as the syrup will cover; let them boil an hour, then put them on a flat dish to cool; and then more until they are all boiled; then boil the syrup until all the water is boiled out of it. When the quinces are all cool put them in jars and strain the syrup, while it is hot, through a fine sieve on the quinces.

QUINCE JELLY.—Prepare the quinces to be as directed, cut them into thin slices, boil them one hour, strain the liquor through a fine cloth, measure a pint of sugar to a pound of sugar, boil it about twenty-five minutes and strain it into the moulds.

QUINCE MARMALADE.—Take the quinces to have been boiled in water, wash them with a sponge; to a pound of quinces take a pound of sugar; boil them together until they are well softened, strain through a coarse sieve, and put it up in small jars.

Peaches.—Weigh to a pound of quinces a pound of sugar; put the quinces into a preserving kettle, and turn on boiling water enough to just cover them, and let them boil ten minutes. Take them out carefully on a flat dish to cool, then pour the sugar with your fingers to keep the shape; take a little of the water that they were boiled in, add the sugar, and let it boil until it becomes a syrup. Put in a few peaches at a time, so as not to crowd them; when they are done put them on a dish to cool. Lay them carefully into a jar, boil the syrup a few minutes after the peaches are done, and strain it hot over the peaches.

ANOTHER MODE.—Peel the peaches; weigh a pound of sugar to a pound of peaches; stew half the sugar on a fire; next day turn off the syrup and add the rest of the sugar; boil the syrup about fifteen minutes, put in the peaches and boil them until they are tender; take them out to cool, and then put them in jars, and strain the syrup hot into them; let them stand two or three days. If the syrup has become thin at the top of the jar, turn the syrup and peaches into the preserving kettle, give them one boil and then put them into jars when cold. Put paper wet with brandy over the mouth of the jars, and then a bladder over it and then a cork.

BRANDY PEACHES.—Prepare them as before directed, excepting the sugar; take three quarters of a pound of sugar to one pound of peaches. When they are done allow a quart of white brandy to a quart of syrup; lay the peaches in the brandy, let them stand in the cold brandy, then, when they are cold, put them into the jar; strain the syrup hot and put it in a fine sieve into the brandy, and then put it on the peaches.

ROSE PEACHES.—Pierce the skins of the plums with a large needle; take a pound of sugar to a pound of plums; boil the sugar in a syrup and put the plums in while it is hot; boil it until the plums look clear; take them out to cool, and so until all are done; then turn up for three or four days, as before stated.

DANISH OR DANISH PLUM.—Take a pound of sugar to a pound of plums; make the syrup, put in the plums, and boil them about thirty minutes. Let them cool; then put them into jars, and strain the syrup while it is boiling hot.

CRAB APPLES.—Leave the stems on; weigh a pound of sugar to a pound of fruit; place the apples with a fine needle; make a syrup of the sugar, when clear put in the apples and boil them thirty or forty minutes; take them out very carefully and lay them singly on a dish to cool; when cool put them into the jar and strain the syrup over them.

WINE THAT WILL NOT INTOXICATE.—The juice of any sound, ripe fruit may be used and put in a jug and sealed up airtight, while it is scalding hot; just as we put up canned fruit, it may be kept any length of time if properly put up. A small bottle of such juice may be opened at any time and mixed with water and sugar, making a pleasant drink of wine that is not intoxicating. Or better still, such juices are excellent to use over vegetables, instead of vinegar, or with bread, when they are scarce. Children would often prefer fruit juice, even without sugar, to molasses or milk. Much good fruit might be used in this way that is now lost, for, because it is too small to pick over, it is thrown away.

Onions, one year with another, are as profitable a crop as can be raised on small places where rot and blight are common, and plenty of labor can be had. Somehow the market is hardly ever well supplied with them.

—People are content to wait for life to the rot and blight, but their predecessors long ago it has become so deep that they can not see to the root or left. This keeps them in ignorance and darkness, and it saves them the trouble of thinking and acting for themselves.

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 18

CANADA BARKET.—The Oregon Times of the 16th says: "We saw on 'Change today a beautiful sample of new barley, which was exhibited by Irwin & Sons." It came from the Bay of Quinte. The berry is white and heavy. So far as color is concerned it is the best sample we have seen this season.

BASE BALL.—A game of Base Ball was played on the Cricket ground here to-day, between the Port Hope Base Ball Club, and Hastings Base Ball Club, of Belleville. At the time of going to press, the Port Hope Club had scored 35, and the Belleville Club 16. The playing on the part of the Belleville Club was not up to the mark. The Belleville Club will entertain the Port Hope boys to a dinner at the Dufres House to-night.

ST. ANDREW'S PIC-NIC.—Our readers are again reminded of this Pic-Nic, which takes place to-morrow, 19th inst., of Belleville. It will be held on the beach of Belleville. At the time of going to press, the "John Greenway" at 3:30 p.m., and the "John Greenway" at 5:30 p.m. The party will be large.

How they liked it. The Promen of Belleville were well pleased with their trip to Canada and their reception here, that they, while on board the steamer on their way over, they adopted the following resolutions: "Resolved, That our health, of Belleville, and been landed to the Mayor and Council, the Officers of the Fire Brigade, and citizens generally of Belleville, and to the Mayor, City Officers, Fire Brigade, of Kingston, for the cordial, generous and hospitable reception given us; and hope at no distant day to have an opportunity to return these favors in kind." It came from the best season ever known here. The cod fishery—good on the coast; some mackerel have struck in; during last week some boats caught upwards of 1,000 in one day, but of poor quality. The different rivers are now drenched by the anglers, and the Department of Marine and Fisheries. The river Dartmouth, this year, has a great quantity of salmon in it whereas last season at this period scarcely a salmon could be seen in it. The Department of Marine and Fisheries keep a watchman there this season.

THE FIREBURNERS.—A correspondent of the Montreal Gazette at Gaspé says the salmon fishery is nearly at a close, after one of the best seasons ever known here. The cod fishery—good on the coast; some mackerel have struck in; during last week some boats caught upwards of 1,000 in one day, but of poor quality. The different rivers are now drenched by the anglers, and the Department of Marine and Fisheries. The river Dartmouth, this year, has a great quantity of salmon in it whereas last season at this period scarcely a salmon could be seen in it. The Department of Marine and Fisheries keep a watchman there this season.

ARREST AT MILL POINT.—The Kingston Flag of this morning says: "On Monday the Chief of Police received two telegrams briefly telling of a desperate affair which occurred at Mill Point in a Blacksmith's shop. The first was to arrest a man whose name for prudential reasons we cannot furnish, on a charge of assault with an attempt to rob. He was stated to have taken passage on the Bay of Quinte for this city, but a search of the steamer on her arrival failed to disclose the presence of the man sought for. A second telegram was received to arrest John Stewart, a ship-carpenter of Kingston, who was also on board the steamer. The telegram made not a very lucid reference to a 'dangerous attack with a hatchet' and it was feared the man was too late to be of service in spotting the man before landing, being two or three hours behind the steamer. That Detective McKay and policeman Hodge proceeded to Stewart's house, and found he had gone off to the moonlight excursion. No course was left but to patiently await his return, and on his approaching the house he was arrested and lodged in the city station. More will be known of the affair to-day."

SPECIAL TELEGRAMS.

FATHER POND, Aug. 18.—The steamship "St. Patrick," bound towards at 8 a.m., with eight cable and eighty three telegrams.

QUEBEC, Aug. 18.—The steamship "St. Mary," from Toronto to Halifax, passed here to-day.

—The Piston (Gazette) of the 13th inst., says: "At a meeting of the Police Board, on Wednesday evening, it was resolved that the annual Reception and Pic-Nic take place towards the latter part of the month, and that Messrs. F. H. Jones, and J. H. Jones, be the place. This spot is a most delightful one, and a better selection could not be made in the Belleville. The Police Board will be invited to join in the Pic-Nic."

Whither are we drifting?

This question has been frequently asked in Canada, and no time in our history has it had more significance than now. It is but two years since we fondly hoped the Confederation of the Provinces into the Dominion of Canada, and an unbroken whole into one structure that our future course was tolerably clear. We thought the bond that united us was so strong, clear and well defined that it could not be broken, stretched or tampered with. We thought that the united wisdom which forged it, had with it annunciated the principle that it should be held sacred by all. We thought that every Province, every statesman, and every individual, had eagerly accepted as the one thing which was to be left untouched and unchangeable as the sacred cord which alone could give peace, harmony, security and contentment to all. But the master of the situation here so played the cards that this gratifying condition is disturbed, and the public mind is again feeling anxious. They cannot see the way out of the blunder in this short time; some are extraneous, subsidy to Nova Scotia, wiping of the Great Western Railway debt, the policy to the Peninsular and departmental carelessness as illustrated by the Belleville business. On each one of these questions, as a public journal supporting the Government, we have spoken freely in the accounts of friendly public dissent from the policy pursued, and we now deem it our duty to warn the Government that they have raised the feeling of uneasiness mainly by their position on the questions before them. We do not think the Government can manage his or her, but making all the allowances possible, the charge of gross carelessness on the part of some of the Departments is not wholly without foundation; the last and most notable illustration of a mistake in the Belleville affair, about which in the Intelligencer we expressed our views. We but repeat that to our minds the "suppression" is more damaging than could be done by the Government. It has been proved to show that more than $10,000 has been lost to the Dominion by this one man, and the manner in which his affairs have been managed since his arrest, and the manner of his escape, tend to increase public uneasiness and dissatisfaction as the most dangerous disturber of all.

We have it as a constitutional, and know that it was in the highest degree. It told the country that the bond of alliance could be altered to suit the requirements of section, party or statesman, and we in Ontario had been taught, and breathed freely after liberation (as we supposed) that we knew exactly how much had to be paid to the general government, and that no combination of other representatives could make us pay more. This one act of unprovoked assault, and insult into men's minds, and from their minds as a beginning.

In reference to the Fenian troubles, the leniency shown and forgiveness extended, are most fruitful. It seems as if our statesmen have failed to understand Fenianism. No intelligent man supposes that Fenianism could exist if it were not encouraged, patted on the back and fondled by the public men and parties of the United States—the truth being that the public men of all stripes and all parties encourage them. Fenianism is with the Americans deliberately encouraged and kept in existence as one of the means used to control state, and every thing that is done to break it down is regarded as an insult to the public men of all stripes and all parties encourage them. Fenianism is with the Americans deliberately encouraged and kept in existence as one of the means used to control state, and every thing that is done to break it down is regarded as an insult to the public men of all stripes and all parties encourage them. Fenianism is with the Americans deliberately encouraged and kept in existence as one of the means used to control state, and every thing that is done to break it down is regarded as an insult to the public men of all stripes and all parties encourage them.

And we sincerely hope that Ministers will not forget the great principles of Government embodied in Confederation, and that they will as administrators of the affairs of the country as to remove the suspicion which the ill-advised act referred to have created, and that their future policy will be such as not only to strengthen their position, but to secure to the country lasting peace, contentment and prosperity.

twelve, overhauled and reached the round number of 900 years, the oldest of the party being 80, and her little daughter 10.

It was pleasant for Mrs. F. and myself, to converse with these old people, and over a cup of tea to hear of the past and contrast it with the present. Forty years has made great changes with the twelve.

—The of the month of the late Methodist Clerk, residing in Belleville, there are only six living in town who were here when they first came in 1820. What a change has thirty years made a few more years, and the twelve will be gone also.

TRIUMPH Celebrated Preparation—for which a Certificate of Merit was awarded to the original preparer the National Exposition at Philadelphia, 1876. It was the only one to obtain the Recipe, and was also awarded a Diploma at the Provincial Exhibition of Canada, held at Montreal in September, 1880, and a Certificate of Merit at the Exposition Universelle at Paris, 1889. Its merits are obvious and agreeable Tonic ever introduced to public notice either in Europe or America. It is a most valuable and agreeable tonic, and a universal favorite among the élite of society being generally served in the Drawing Rooms immediately before dinner, in preference to Vermouth.

THE ingredients of its composition have been imparted to the leading Physicians of the Continent, and have received their qualified approval on every account.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

THE INTERNATIONAL BOAT RACE.

LONDON, August 19.—The "Times" of to-day has an editorial on the forthcoming international boat race. It says the Atlantic alone makes a fair work, as the time was not so good as last night, nor so good as formerly, and the time seemed to have slipped from the former occasion. The Harvard's rowed over the course at speed. They made a good start, but a sinking wind impeded their progress when they reached Hammersmith Bridge. The Oxford boat going over the same course previous today, made faster time, but they had a fair wind, and the tide was more in their favor, 2 to 4 miles off Oxford, with no tides.

A LITTLE TROUBLE WITH PRUSSIA.

VIENNA, Aug. 18.—Baron Von Boett has replied to the recent note of Herr Von Tschir, the Prussian Minister's Foreign Affairs. He asserts that he thought a verbal explanation sufficient to remove the misunderstanding between the two governments, and desired to avoid useless correspondence. The Prussian Minister said that what he said in committee was of a private character. The transactions of a Parliamentary Committee are not within the control of Foreign Governments. His decision to enter into a discussion of what was said there, but will not incur the obligation on questions caused by inaccurate newspaper reports. Referring to the interpretation by the Prussian Cabinet of the military treaties between Prussia and the South German States, he says that in the crucial situation of what was said Austrian Minister at Berlin in March, 1907, nothing was said as to whether the treaty of Prague prevented the conclusion of a concluding treaty with the other States of Germany; but it was stated that certain well-known agreements preceding the signature of the treaty were concluded, and it is impossible to decide whether the case relating to the international independence of the Southern States was settled as a matter of fact, or because its importance was so great that it should have been otherwise worded. Baron Von Boett does not admit that he should be held to account for words which the newspapers alone were altered by him, yet he is willing to enter into a discussion and remove any existing misunderstandings, to enter into correspondence to regard to the conciliatory endeavors made on either side during the last year, which have possibly been misconstrued. The circumstances that there had been no intercourse between the Count Von Wimpfen, the Austrian ambassador at Berlin, and the Count Von Bismarck, for sometimes, is alluded to in the dispatch, explains that this was owing to the alternate absence of both gentlemen from Berlin, from the spring of 1905 until the close of that year. After the return of Bismarck, certain well-known continuous and violent attacks in the public press on Austria gave the Austrian Government cause to recommend that the Count Von Wimpfen should abstain from visiting Bismarck. The Austrian Premier concludes by declaring that the approach that Austria intended to prolong her attitude of reserve cannot be properly disposed of by referring to the interrupted intercourse between himself and the Baron Von Wimpfen, the Prussian Minister at Vienna.

THE CARLISTS—A BIO MOVIE PROMISED.

MADRID, August 18.—Fifty-five Carlists have been brought prisoners into Valencia. Several Carlist bands have dispersed by the troops within the past few days.

PARIS, August 18.—The Paris to-day asserts that parties of Carlists on Spanish soil are increasing, and that in some cases they have met with success. It is claimed that they have captured 9 officers and 40 privates of the Spanish army. The Paris also states that within a month a great military event of which it gives no particulars, will happen in Spain, after which Don Carlos will publish a manifesto.

HAMBURG, Aug. 18.—The Government is taking extraordinary precautions to prevent the assembling of Carlists at La Mascha.

QUEENSTOWN, Aug. 18.—The steamship "Russia" and "Denmark," from New York, have arrived.

Winkles, Broomsticks, Bull's eyes.
An old, laughing, somewhat dry
mirth was very irregular, said: "It was just as in my young days no trusting
any of 'em."

"I say, Pete, when my little boy gets his hair cut, why not let it be regarded as a great phenomenon? I didn't know, Bill."
"One it can be a change of day."

"Mamma" said a precocious little boy,
who, against his mother's wishes, had cut his hair, "I like the look of it. It has more of the look of a girl's hair, but you have more to give away, don't you take 'em."

A drunken man walking along the street
at night with his hands thrown back, looking at the moon with sovereign contempt,
was heard to exclaim: "You needn't be so proud, Madam Moon. You are full once a month, and me every night!"

"At a party, while a young lady was playing with a young man, she took the hand of a bachelor and exclaimed: "I give the world for those fingers." "Perhaps you might get the whole hand by asking," said
the young lady's observant cousin.

In reply to the question of the "Famous"
Wives at Lancaster, Mr. Macdonald, farmer, Bathurst, is reported to have said,
amid chimes and laughter, "that he hoped they might all die over their wives, as he didn't think they could get on as without them."

A clergyman who was lately counseling a young widow on the death of her husband,
spoke in a very serious tone, remarking that he was "one of the great ones of a christian." "You cannot find his equal, as you well know." To which the sobbing girl replied, with an almost broken
voice, "I'll be it!"

"I said, said a young lady, 'what a pity you are not a young man.' "Why not?"
"Because you are such a good looking lady."

"Dostle," describing a New York
boarding-house, says you can always tell when they get a new kitchen girl, by the color of the hair in the biscuit.

During an examination, a medical student being asked the question, "When does mortification ensue?" He replied, "When you pop the question and are answered no."

Miss Anthony, writes her speeches in bed, and the Chicago Post naughtily says,
this is a sure proof that she is her own composition.

A New Orleans paper says that a young widow in that city, who writes well, is training herself for an editor. We hope that she is not the editor who is training herself for.

Clerks, (looking at the bonnets, &c.):
"Don't you think they are very handsome?"
Any (whose thoughts are on the other side of the street). "Very, especially the one with the black mousetoe."

A Rocky Mountain editor says, "Among all the female wags of the present day, an important one is pre-occupied by the black mousetoe."

WESTMAN ORATORY.—Specimens of western oratory are rather stale, but here
is an authentic, which has not been in print
before.—Where is Europe compared with America? Nowhere! Where is England?
Nowhere! That King England the mistress of the sea, but what makes the sea? The Mississippi River makes it. And all we've got to do is to turn the Mississippi into the Mannohs Bay. And the English navy will be foundering in the mud.

A clergyman at Saratoga, wrote home
a very funny estimate of the value of a certain lady's dress, which he plaintively requested was valued at ten dollars for two years. But when the reverend galloper of statistic came to the lady's diamonds, he was still more particular. "They are equal in value," he said to the cost of a comfortable mission church, with tenant room attached, gas fixtures and cabinet organ included. "We wonder if the gentleman,
when at home, is in the habit of taking sights at the ladies of his congregation in the same financial way."

JOSE BILLINGS on the Black Man.
The Black man enlivened this free and pleasant country two hundred years ago
for, in the long story of a vessel, he was kindly furnished with a free ride, and some rice and water for his little cabin.

Immediately upon his arrival he commenced business for other folks on our own coast, and had plenty to do.

He was very choosy in his selection of clothes, wearing but in, and these labors
made out of rascals.

He occasionally changed his location, moving into an adjoining town, but in these journeys he was still kindly furnished
with a guide, so that there was no danger of his getting lost.

In these trips he seldom took his family
with him, they were either left remain at home or made excursions in search of work to other States under the guidance of a personed guide.

Once in a while the Black Man would stay
over in the old and little North and get early lost.

His guides would mourn for him then, and
search for him, but he was never again
lost on the line.

Everybody, and when he died, that he was the happiest critter that had ever been discovered yet, with nothing to do but work
and a kind guide to watch over him all the time, and mourn for him when he got lost.

But the Black Man is a very phoozil critter.

Mail & Intelligence

LETTERS BY HANCOCK IN THREE SECTIONS—LITERATURE IN THREE OR SEVEN—CHARTER IN ALL.

Vol. 3.

BELLEVILLE, COUNTY OF HASTINGS, DOMINION OF CANADA, MONDAY EVENING, AUGUST 23, 1899.

No. 16.

The Stabbing Affray.

IMPORTANT EVIDENCE.

SATURDAY, 8 o'clock, p. m.

The case was resumed before Francis

M. ANDREWS, Esq., at 8 o'clock, p. m.

DAVID BRENNAN swore. Was present in

Williams' bar-room at the time of the affray. Went in with Langley. Lawlor

was standing at the window. Think

Langley spoke first to Lawlor about Mike

Cummings. Could not swear positively whether any one asked Lawlor to drink or not. We three, Cummings, myself and Lawlor had one drink, and Lawlor still stood at the window. Lawlor made an advance

towards us; there were some words

between Cummings and Lawlor and Lawlor. Lawlor got angry as soon as he was twitted of being called Mike Cummings. Should say there must have been some angry feeling before that time. Heard

both Cummings and Lawlor say hard words towards each other. Heard the words "I'm son of a b—h." Won't say whether Lawlor told Langley to stop

away or he would kick him. When Lawlor was arrested Cummings and Dows

were both struck upon him. The first thing that Dows and Cummings did when they came in was to rush upon Lawlor. Don't think that Dows told Lawlor he was going to arrest him. Don't recollect seeing any girl around, there might have been. Lawlor was pushed into a small room and thrown over the table. I saw the long cut away from the arm. I don't recollect seeing more than two cuts on Cummings' head

by the throat; was swearing at Lawlor, and was very angry. Both Lawlor and Cummings were angry. On the night of the School meeting—Friday—David Holden

and I met Jim and Mike Cummings with two or three others, on the street. I don't swear which of the party used the language "son of a b—h." The row was quiet when the Policeman came into the room; Langley and Lawlor were parted at the time; they were parted not more than half a minute; I was not near Lawlor. He was caught hold of. I don't think Lawlor told to touch Langley

again; it seemed the row was caused by

Lawlor representing himself as Cummings'

brother; did not see Lawlor slap Cummings' face before Cummings went out for the Policeman; I think they were both soaring at each other; I considered that

Dows and Cummings came in to arrest

Lawlor; Dows had his stick up shaking

it at Lawlor, and Cummings seized him,

at the same time shoved him on the table

and got him down; they did not go to

Langley first, but went immediately to

Lawlor; Lawlor was standing in the middle of the floor when arrested.

JAMES MCCARTHY, sworn. I am bar-

room in Williams' saloon, where the row

took place; I saw the first of the row;

Cummings had been in there during the day; Lawlor was in the house all the day, and every time Cummings came in, Law-

lor was stopping in all the day; no one

was in the bar-room when Cummings and

Langley came except Lawlor and myself;

Lawlor was standing looking out of the window all the time, and could have seen them when they came; Lawlor did not turn his head, or look at them; Langley

looked around the bar-room, and then

pushed back; and called out to Lawlor,

and says, "Come on Mike Cummings, and have something to drink;" Lawlor got

mad at him, and told him not to give him

any of his lip, or he would kick the pants

out of him; Cummings spoke up and

says, "You don't Lawlor;" Lawlor came towards the middle of the floor, and

Cummings went up to him; they were

shouting each other; Lawlor got them from behind the door, and said something to

Lawlor, and then Langley "got the stick."

Cummings went out for the police; the row was commenced by Langley calling

Lawlor Mike Cummings, and Cummings

came in to the bar-room before Cummings

was taken place, but I did not see him

at the window saying no attention to them;

Lawlor was quite sober; he refused several times during the day to drink, and he did not want to keep; remember Dalton

and Tauber asking him to drink, and he refused; after Dalton went out Lawlor

said that he was out of the "gang," and wanted to make him drink; Lawlor told me the next morning after the "Kelo" row

row; I did not hear Dows ask Langley

who struck him; Dows went right to

Langley; he did not want to ask him; Lawlor

came into the bar-room before Cummings

came into the sitting-room; it was an hour

afterwards.

Cross-examined—Did not hear Lawlor

threaten Cummings; Lawlor put his fingers

up at Cummings' nose and asked him if he wanted any more, he then kicked Langley

and Cummings went after the police; did not hear Langley cry murder; when Dows

came back the row was all over.

Re-examined—Lives with Mr.

Williams; I remember the time of the row

referred to; I was in the kitchen and

I heard James Cummings say several times "I dare you;" I have no doubt it was him who said that; don't know whom

he was speaking to; heard considerable confusion; while I was going through the hall

to get into the sitting room Cummings,

Dows, and some other person pushed

Lawlor against me; I saw I could not get out that way and then went back and stood in the door; I saw James Cummings have

Lawlor by the neck, near the throat, with both hands moving him into the sitting-

room; Dows and then standing by; he was holding him; Cummings was not very angry and told Lawlor that he would be arrested and offered to assist in arresting him; Lawlor said he would not be arrested; he said that Cummings told him

A Wife's Blast Against Tobacco.

He sits in a corner from morning to night—

He smokes, chews, smokes—

He rises at dawn his pipe to light,

And puffs and chews with all his might

Till the hour of sleep. 'Tis his delight.

To smoke, chew, smoke.

The gold goes in when the pipe goes out—

He chews, chews, chews—

Now a cloud of smoke goes up from his throat

Then his mouth sends a constant stream of

His chew, chew, chew.

He sits all day in a smoke or fog—

The puff, puff, puff—

He grows at his wife, the cat and dog.

He covers with filth the carpet and rug.

And his only answer, when I give him a pig,

Is puff, puff, puff.

The house all o'er from end to end

Is smoke, smoke, smoke!

In whatever room my way I tread,

I'll take his clothes to wash and mend,

Unwashed perfumes will ever ascend.

Of smoke, smoke, smoke.

At home or abroad, at sea or land

To smoke, smoke, smoke!

His mouth is stuffed from ear to ear.

Or puffing the stump of a pipe or cigar.

And his day will end, truly fast,

In smoke, smoke, smoke!

The Byron Mystery.

THE "Mystery"—who was she?

Mr. Stowe says that Byron "fell into the depths of a secret adulterous intrigue with a blood relation so near in consanguinity

that discovery must have been utter ruin

and expulsion from civilized society."

There is but one person to whom this disposition will apply. That person is Augusta

Mary, the half sister of Byron, and at the time when the intrigue is said to have been taking place the wife of Colonel George

Leigh.

This woman was the daughter of John

Byron, the father of the poet, and was the child of an intrigue between him and the Marchioness of Carmarthen. The guilty

pair eloped to the Continent, and the Marchioness having obtained a divorce, Byron and the Marchioness were married. She died within a few years, leaving this

daughter, Augusta, the date of whose birth

we find now have stated; but she must have been several years, probably from five to ten, older than her half-brother. She was brought up by her maternal relatives;

and there is no indication that Byron ever

met her until after he entered upon man's estate. In none of the publications of that day do we find any suggestion of her character,

although we are told by persons now

living, who were in London society at that time, that among the charges against Byron—some of them very serious—

—was this one he brought forward.

Until Mrs. Stowe shall present some positive proof, we think the following explanation

must be accepted. The disputes between Byron and his wife reached a great height soon after their marriage—

she had every reason to believe him an

unfaithful husband, and was eagerly suspicious of every woman. His sister stood by him during all these bitter quarrels with his wife, and the world, and lady glossy

took up an almost insane jealousy against her, which must have aggravated by his strange will. To a jealous woman

tried as light as air become confirmation

strong as proof of a body with

from a thousand things which were tried

Lady Byron's morbid imagination framed the

horrid story, a story for which, as yet,

no real evidence was produced. But it must be noted that the London does not say that he had before him any proof

of the crime alleged by Lady Byron, but merely if the allegations were true, then

the conclusion to which she came was unavoidable. It is also curious that this story was not made public until after the death of Dr. Lushington and Sir John

Cam Hobhouse (Lord Brougham) had

repeated the last witness who could be expected to speak with any positive knowledge upon the subject.

The latest name for matrimony is "commit

Ayer's

Hair Vigor,

For restoring Gray Hair to its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable,

healthy, and effective

for preserving the hair. Faded or gray

hair is soon restored

to its original color

with the gloss and

freshness of youth.

This hair is thick-

ened, falling hair

checked, and bald-

ness often, though not always, cured

by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed,

or the glands atrophied and decayed.

Its occasional use will prevent the hair

from turning gray or falling out, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which

make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. It wanted

merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable.

Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white emhair, and yet lasts

long on the hair, giving it
